Established in 1984, the Victims of Crime Resource Center (VCRC) operates the State of California's confidential, toll-free 1-800-VICTIMS line. The VCRC also maintains a website (www.1800victims.org) that contains a vast online database and victim-related publications. The VCRC is mandated by Penal Code Section 13897, and is funded by CalEMA, California Emergency Management Agency.

VCRC Services:

For Victims:

- Under attorney supervision, law clerks provide callers with:
 - Free legal information about victims' rights and resources available to victims.
 - Referrals to local, state, and national organizations that can provide assistance.
- Representation
 - The VCRC represents victims on a wide array of victim related issues. (Note: Due to geographical and funding constraints, the VCRC can only represent victims in Sacramento County.)

For Service Providers:

- VCRC conducts free legal research to victim service providers.
- The VCRC also offers free presentations on a host of victim related topics. Presentations can be tailored to your organizations' needs. Presentations can be in-person or via live video conferencing. Call (916) 739-7055 to schedule a presentation.
